INVESTMENT APPROACH

Multi-asset investing seeks consistent, less volatile returns compared to the market through a diversified portfolio. This involves blending a variety of different asset classes so that the portfolio participates in some of the upside in rising equity markets, but also aims to limit some of the downside when markets are falling.

Waverton have an active approach to investing both at the asset allocation level and fund selection level. In terms of asset allocation the strategic positions are constantly reviewed and tactically adjusted according to market conditions. Our tactical asset allocation is driven by the Waverton Asset Allocation Committee whose members all have experience of multiple investment cycles. They meet monthly or more frequently, if required, and ensure that portfolios are managed in accordance with their long-term objectives but also with a degree of latitude, particularly important as Waverton is a house which is flexible and pragmatic and does not seek to 'hug' benchmarks.

CHANGES TO ASSET ALLOCATION

After determining the asset allocation, the portfolio managers go through a rigorous fund selection process which requires extensive and detailed knowledge of the individual managers, their investment style and how they behave over different periods of the market cycle. In identifying attractive funds we focus on the quality and experience of the fund manager, an investment style sympathetic to our own and a fund manager whose reward is closely aligned with the performance of the fund. Strong performance is not enough to ensure a fund remains in the portfolio. If it does not fit with the team's expectation of the business cycle it will be sold.

RISK WARNINGS

The value of investments and the income from them can go down as well as up and investors may not recover the amount of their original investment. The sterling value of overseas investments, and the income from them, will fluctuate as a result of currency movements. Past performance is not a guide to future performance. The tax treatment of investments depends on each investor's individual circumstances and is subject to changes in tax legislation.
